Western Skies started with Smith running around West Texas with a guitar and a Polaroid camera back in 2020/2021. He started taking pictures, writing things down, making sketches in a notebook. Once the songs started coming, more pictures started happening, more drawings...he just kept going. And out of it flowed the images, drawings, songs, a book and album featured in this exhibition.

Darden Smith is an Austin-based artist, photographer, poet, essayist, singer and songwriter whose multi-media practice exemplifies a deeply feeling Texas spirit tinged with humor and emotion. Through images, words and songs, Smith connects us with his powers of keen observation and minimalist expression.
